

Film and Media Foundation

Summer materials

Task

Pick a film or TV show of your choice and consider its significance. But what do we mean by significance? The term is used here as it is subjective and therefore open to debate. Film and TV show have cultural, industrial, historical, personal and sometimes even political importance.

In short: films and TV show can matter in lots of ways. Ways that we might not always agree on.

For this task we would like you to write 150 words on the significance of the film or TV show of your choice. It might be that it is important in one particular respect (perhaps it is was the first of its kind or genre) or is significant in several ways all at once.

We'll discuss these during the induction sessions in September as a way of beginning to think about the complex web of ways in which film and TV are important in a number of ways (as well as fun things to watch!)