* In some programmes, including, BA Design for Industry, BA Fashion and BA Fashion Design and Marketing, there are particular times when whole year-groups would be expected to be on placements/internships in industry. This means entry points for exchange students to those programmes are restricted, as shown in the table above.

All students applying to join a Design Programme, will be asked to provide a portfolio of previous work as part of the application process. This helps our tutors assess each applicant's suitability for that programme, and advise on the most appropriate year of entry.

Successful applicants will be advised of the particular modules and pathways available to them within a specific programme structure once an offer is made. For example, BA Graphic Design Students could have three options: Branding, Illustration or Typography. Students are often able to choose which of these pathways they would prefer, but sometimes the tutors will not be able to offer all options.
